

Gilbert Khadiagala, Bio

Gilbert M. Khadiagala is the Jan Smuts Professor of International Relations and Head of Department of International Relations at the University of Witwatersrand, Johannesburg, South Africa. He was born and raised in Kenya, obtaining a B.A. (Hons.) in Political Science from the University of Nairobi. Afterwards he studied for an M.A in International Relations at McMaster University in Hamilton, Canada. After completing his M.A. he taught International Relations and Political Science at the University of Nairobi before proceeding to the Paul H. Nitze School of Advanced International Studies, Johns Hopkins University in Washington DC where he obtained a Ph.D. in International Studies.

Prof. Khadiagala's research focuses on African politics and security, foreign policy, mediation, and conflict resolution. He is the author of Allies in Adversity: The Frontline States in Southern African Security, and Meddlers or Mediators? African Interveners in Civil Conflicts in Eastern Africa, the co-author of Sudan: The Elusive Quest for Peace, the editor of Security Dynamics in Africa's Great Lakes Region and African Foreign Policies: Power and Process, and co-editor Conflict Management and African Politics: Ripeness, Bargaining, and Mediation. He is currently doing research on leadership in post-conflict transitions and mediation of electoral conflicts in Africa.

He has taught seminars and supervised postgraduate students in International Relations, Comparative Politics, Political Theory, and African Politics. He also serves on the editorial and advisory boards of leading journals, publishing houses, and academic and policy institutes in North America, Europe, and Africa.